Clinically studied ingredient helps empty bladder more fully

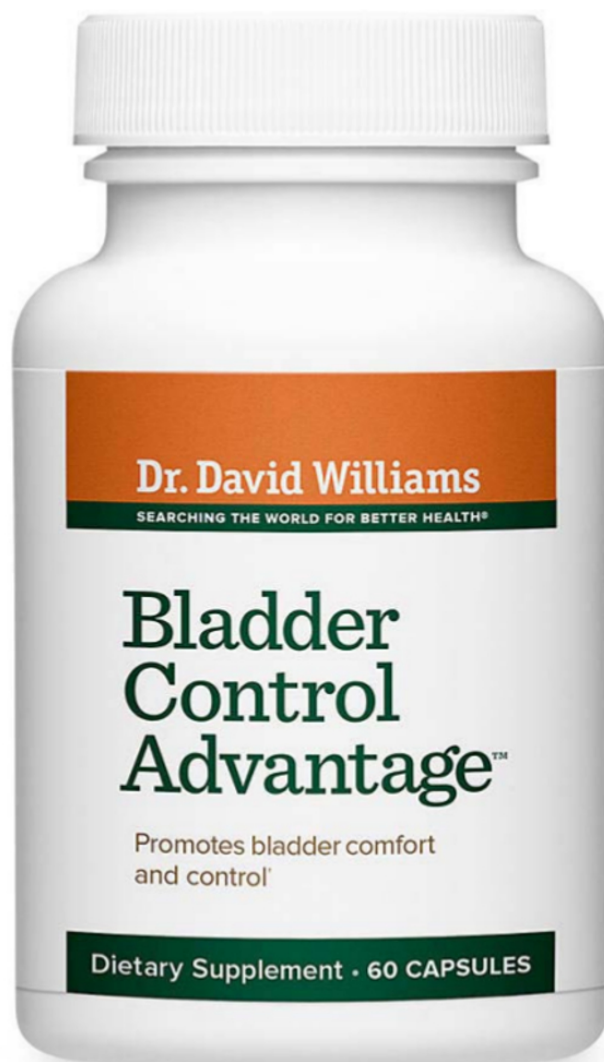

Japanese researchers found that water-soluble pumpkin seed extract and special soy isoflavones inhibit the enzyme that converts testosterone to estradiol (estrogen). It is thought by reducing this conversion, it helps tone your pelvic floor muscles helping to reduce the likelihood of occasional leaking. Plus, it helps relax those same muscles when you're in the bathroom so you can empty your bladder more fully—reducing the constant urge to go.

The research is impressive! Open label clinical trials suggest the potential benefits of the ingredients in Bladder Control Advantage including reduced nighttime urination, better sleep, reduced trips to the restroom, and greater bladder control.* Bladder Control Advantage gives you the same proprietary blend of pumpkin seed extract and soy isoflavones as the research studies.

Ancient Ayurvedic secret for urine leakage

There's no question that Ayurvedic medicine has given us some of our most powerful and effective health solutions—and that's definitely true with bladder health. Traditional healers in India struck gold when they discovered the power of three leaf caper. Research shows it increases the muscle tone in the bladder area—a powerful contributor of bladder control. I had to include this powerhouse in Bladder Control Advantage.

There's no reason to live with less than healthy bladder control—especially since we have highly effective, natural breakthroughs that can help. Bladder Control Advantage makes a very real difference in your everyday life and how you feel. You'll no longer have an embarrassing secret to hide. Get your life back—try Bladder Control Advantage today.
