Wait approximately 4-5 hours, and if suitable, consume a second capsule (on an empty stomach 30-45 minutes before a meal or protein shake) and assess your tolerance again. If appropriate (which can be determined by assessing your tolerance level from the previous servings), repeat this procedure on the following day but increase each serving by 1 capsule. Continue to repeat this procedure each day until you have reached your individual tolerance level or you have reached the maximum of 4 capsules per serving, two times daily, whichever comes first. DO NOT exceed recommended use. For those individuals with a sensitive stomach, try the previously mentioned protocol with food or after a meal instead of on an empty stomach.
