

Ketones are important chemical structures naturally found within aromatic phenol compounds in plants. They give berries and other fruits their distinct and pleasant aromas. Animal research has shown that raspberry ketones may counteract some of the effects of a high fat diet, and help with fat tissue breakdown. Further studies show that raspberry ketones can boost both the expression and secretion of adiponectin, a protein hormone that helps with fatty acid break down and the regulation of glucose. When used in conjunction with reduced calorie intake and moderate exercise, raspberry ketones may help the body utilize fat for energy needs. Our Balanced Raspberry Ketones product includes an alkalizing & pH balancing berry blend, offering additional polyphenols, antioxidant balance, and improved impact with the power of berries!
