Frequently Asked Questions

1. What would I take Immune FX for?

You can take Immune FX to treat flu, strep throat, pneumonia, the common cold and most any skin infection (along with appropriate topical ointments).

2. How often do I take Immune FX?

You can take it daily, unless you're trying to become pregnant or are currently pregnant.

3. Can I take Immune FX if I'm breastfeeding?

Yes, it is 100% safe and effective for mom to take. Indirectly, this will help babies' immune system, too.

4. Can I take it for allergies?

Yes. Many people have found that their air-born allergies are much easier to manage with Immune FX. Unlike common medications, it helps remove biological nasties and works with the body's own natural defenses, without suppressing other functions.

5. The usage on the bottle says to take 1-2 capsules twice daily to fight infection. So does that mean that along with everything else, now I have to take another supplement every day?

No. You only need to take Immune FX when you are trying to fight off infection. It is not intended to be taken daily as a regular supplement. Generally, children would take the smaller dose and adults, the larger.

6. How will I know if I need to take more?

As your body's immune response kicks into a higher gear, you should start to feel better within a day or two. The natural ingredients in Immune FX can help to remove "biological nasties" from your body, so you spend less time feeling sick and more time living young. If you feel dehydrated or have a dry mouth, you took too much.

7. Can I take this if I am pregnant?

No.

8. Is there anything else I should do in conjunction with taking Immune FX?

Yes. There is a whole chapter dedicated to overcoming illness safely and naturally in the award-winning book, Over-The-Counter Natural Cures. You should buy it and read it. Be sure to apply everything laid out in that chapter. There are some simple, but powerful, steps to follow so you can avoid antibiotics.

9. Can I take Immune FX with medication?

Yes.

10. What is the difference between Relief FX, Joint FX and Immune FX?

Relief FX is the most potent, non-toxic, natural pain killer available. It's safe enough for children, yet strong enough for the NFL.

Joint FX is a non-toxic, natural blend for those suffering from joint pain and stiffness. By helping the body rebuild cartilage, it relieves joint pain.

Immune FX helps the immune system overcome illness by helping to rid the body of "biological nasties." It will not soothe pain and it should NOT be taken as a preventive measure. It is to be taken only when ill or suffering from allergies.

For more information on how to prevent illness, live healthier & feel younger than you've ever felt in your life, buy and read, Over-The-Counter Natural Cures and The Stop Eating So F#@%ing Much Diet and follow all of the suggestions.

11. Since the usage does not specify, should I take Immune FX with food or on an empty stomach?

Take after a meal.

12. Can I take it with alcohol?

Yes.

13. When should I stop taking it?

When you're better.

14. Can I give Immune FX to my children?

Yes. If they can swallow a pill. You can't open the capsule and put into food or drink because the active ingredients taste horrible. It might be possible to conceal taste in yogurt and maple syrup...But it's a long shot.
