OXY-ENERGIZER was one of the first products developed by Andrew Lessman in 1979 based upon extensive research in France, Germany and Japan. Its original formula was the subject of a US Patent and has gone on to become one of our most popular products ever since. It is a unique combination of two vital electrolyte-minerals (Potassium and Magnesium) fully reacted with Aspartic Acid and Citric Acid to form a stable complex that is chemically referred to as "Potassium-Magnesium Aspartate-Citrate." Please note that despite the similar name (aspartate), it is a natural amino acid and NOT the unrelated, undesirable food additive Aspartame™. Potassium and Magnesium are often overlooked by most individuals, but their dramatic impact on general and heart health should never be neglected. Oxy-Energizer was originally developed for health care professionals to support the energy and performance requirements of their elite athlete patients, and it is now most frequently used by individuals like you to support optimum cellular energy production. Oxy-Energizer's mechanism of action stems from its "mineral-transporter" properties, which allows it to help support the energy requirements necessary to maintain healthy, high concentrations of Potassium and Magnesium inside all your cells. This process of balancing electrolytes for all of the trillions of cells in your body, particularly the cells of the heart muscle, requires extreme amounts of energy. The unique, natural mineral-transporter properties of Oxy-Energizer supports your cells, particularly those of the heart, in more efficiently performing this vital energy-demanding function, thereby conserving energy for other essential functions.
