Citric Acid can be obtained both naturally in fruits such as limes, oranges, grapefruits, tomatoes etc., or through supplementation. As an acidity regulator, Citric Acid is often used for improving mineral absorption in the body.* Though not an antioxidant itself, Citric Acid helps to enhance the activity of other beneficial antioxidants, which helps to neutralize the effects of free radical damage.* Citric Acid supports kidney functions, helps to control acid balance, and revitalize the skin; slowing down the aging process.*
