

Elderberry is packed with antioxidants and vitamins that may boost your immune system. They can help tame inflammation, lessen stress, and help protect your heart, too. Some experts recommend elderberry to help prevent and ease cold and flu symptoms. Zinc is responsible for over 200 chemical and enzymatic productions in the body. It supports the nervous system, and helps metabolize proteins, fats, and carbohydrates. Zinc also supports the growth, development, and maintenance of body tissues. Vitamin C plays a role in many body functions. It is extremely important for immune system support, wound healing, and maintenance of bones and teeth. It helps to repair body tissues, absorb iron, form collagen and can also help with high blood pressure and heart disease.
