Discussion: Native to southern China, Jiaogulan (pronounced jee-ow-goo-lahn) is a climbing vine in the gourd family. Traditionally consumed as a tea, it was often referred to as the "Immortality Herb," because the natives who consumed the tea had a history of unusual longevity. Jiaogulan is known as an adaptogen, a unique class of herbs that help support the body's ability to deal with stress. Jiaogulan contains an abundant number of powerful antioxidants as well as 82 distinct phytochemicals known as gypenosides.
