SAMETM
200 mg active
S-Adenosyl-Methionine per tablet

SAME is found in every living being. It is an important physiological agent synthesized by the body, and it is involved in over 40 biochemical reactions, some of which affect:

MOOD SAME and Emotional Well-Being: †

SAME is essential to the manufacture of many important brain compounds such as neurotransmitters and phospholipids, which are critical for maintaining healthy mood and emotional well-being.

JOINTS SAME and Joint Mobility: †

Clinical studies indicate that SAME may play an important role in the manufacture of cartilage and that SAME helps produce proteoglycans, essential components in healthy joint function and mobility.

LIVER SAME and Liver Function: †

SAME is involved in many processes of the liver. SAME is essential to maintaining glutathione levels, which is critical for proper liver function.

As people age, SAME levels can decrease. SAME supplementation may be an important factor in maintaining mobility, and a healthy body and mind.
