DIETARY SUPPLEMENT

Natural Lycopene is a powerful antioxidant carotenoid and the pigment that gives tomatoes, watermelon and pink grapefruit their characteristic red color. Lycopene is one of the four main carotenoids normally found in human blood and tissue. Studies show that lycopene is a scavenger of singlet oxygen, offering powerful antioxidant protection. The body cannot convert lycopene into Vitamin A; thus lycopene is reserved exclusively for antioxidant use.* Certain research publications indicate that Lycopene may help support the following:

- Supports cardiovascular health & immune function*
- Supports healthy digestive system*
