

While its usage has been recorded in ancient Egyptian writings, propolis continues to be the choice for people looking for a rich, natural concentration of bioflavonoids. These bioflavonoids enhance the effectiveness of vitamin C and help fortify the body's defense system.†

Honeybee Propolis is a protective substance metabolized by bees. Records of its dietary and topical uses date back to the ancient Greek physician, Hippocrates (460-377 B.C.)
