

Agaricus blazei (braziliensis)

The newest medicinal mushroom from the rain forests of Brazil, Agaricus blazei (braziliensis) contains the highest levels of beta glucan yet found in a medicinal mushroom. At 45% beta glucan (polysaccharide), this extract represents the highest potency available in an Agaricus blazei (braziliensis) supplement.*

Potency Guaranteed

MushroomScience® extracts are among the most potent mushroom supplements in the world. Each product is manufactured to the exacting quality standards identified in the supporting scientific research. Our exclusive hot water extraction process guarantees the levels of the active compounds these mushrooms are famous for.

All-Natural Wood Grown Mushrooms

Our mushrooms are cultivated exclusively on wood, without the use of chemicals, just the way nature intended. Wood grown mushrooms are known to produce the richest, most potent full spectrum extracts available, and are preferred by herbalists and doctors the world over.
