

In Japan, Coriolus Vericolor is one the most valued medicinal mushrooms for treatment of Cancer. Scientists have found PSK and PSP of the substances that can be extracted from Corilous Vericolor have several anti-tumor properties. In a clinical trial of breast cancer at the University of Minnesota Medical School, Corilous Vericolor slows the spreads of Cancer cells and improve immune status in patients following standard cancel treatment. PSK and PSP also believed to be a strong anti-oxidant, a compound that blocks the action of free radicals activated oxygen molecules that can damage cells.
