Andrew Lessman's M.S.M. BENEFITS delivers a concentrated source of a vital, but often overlooked dietary component – Sulfur. The initials M.S.M. stand for Methylsulfonylmethane, which is a simple organic molecule that is built around the sulfur atom that it readily donates. Sulfur is important to your body because it is a vital structural component in the connective tissues that comprise all our joints, as well as the tissues of our hair, skin and nails. In fact, it is sulfur's unique ability to create disulfide linkages that allows tissues like our joints and skin to retain their structural integrity, along with their youthful, desirable elastic properties. In short, sulfur is required to maintain the healthy structure and function of the connective tissue (cartilage, ligaments and tendons) in all our joints, while it is also required as a structural component of the tissues and proteins (elastin, keratin and collagen) of our hair, skin and nails. Sulfur is an essential building block and vital structural ingredient that is necessary to support, maintain and fortify healthy cartilage and connective tissue throughout your body, but until recently has gone relatively overlooked. M.S.M. Benefits delivers a convenient source of this important element and also provides Vitamin C and Type II Collagen to help support M.S.M.'s role in the maintenance of healthy joint structure and function. If you are looking for more healthy support for your joints or your hair, skin and nails, you can use this product in conjunction with Andrew Lessman's Complete Joint Effort or Healthy Hair, Skin and Nails.
