

why HIT reform matrix?

Train Longer! By taking REFORM MATRIX whether it is during your workout, throughout the day, or both, you can increase your ability to train harder and longer. By using our advanced amino acid and glutamine matrix together you will get the most effective combination of nutritional requirements ideal for faster recovery between sessions, greater performance gains, and better muscle growth. Whether you train to increase endurance, better your performance, or gain more muscle your body quickly depletes your glycogen storage and starts breaking down your muscle. When this happens, you reach failure faster and have shorter periods of activity. Glutamine is one of the most beneficial supplements you can add to your workout regimen because it is not only an essential part of the building blocks of protein and muscle growth, but it also stops the muscle breakdown that occurs after extended periods of stress during training. REFORM MATRIX helps to support the replacement of these much needed glycogen stores and gives you the needed longevity during training to reach the next level.*
