Your body's first line of defense is its immune system. Essential immune system mechanisms are found in both white blood cells and in your digestive system. Since approximately 70% of immune cells are located in our digestive tract, good intestinal microflora balance is not only important for digestion but plays a vital role in reinforcing immune health. Ester-C® also supports immune cells.* It stays in white blood cells for up to 24 hours, which is longer than traditional vitamin C ascorbic acid.† With the combination of Ester-C's 24-hour immune support and 6 billion bio-active probiotics^◊, you can now experience the advanced level of both immune and digestive support in a once daily complex.*

† White blood cells are an important component of your immune system.

BIO-tract® TECHNOLOGY

BIO-tract® is an advanced technology that helps probiotics get past stomach acid without breaking down. Moistened by fluids in the stomach, a gel-like enteric coated shield develops around the tablet, protecting it from gastric acid and a harsh stomach environment. Once the tablet reaches the intestinal tract, bio-active organisms are released through the protective layer and into the digestive system, where they are most needed. This allows good probiotics to populate the intestinal tract.*
