The majority of women will experience "flushing" or hot flashes during menopause. Hot Flash Perimenopause Support is designed to support capillary health, and promote blood flow.[†] Nutrients specific to nitrogen monoxide and endothelial cells have been included, along with botanicals to also assist with balancing changes in mood and irritability, in preparation for future increases in circulation.[†] Vitamin C is essential for capillary health, magnesium is required for endothelial cell migration, and zinc also supports healthy skin and bones.[†]

Promotes reduction of menopausal hot flashes.[†]
